Y. L. ATKINS IS SHOT IN BACK

ARENSDALE RESIDENT VICTIM OF MYSTERIOUS ASSAULT.

WILL PROBABLY NOT RECOVER

REVOLVER IS FOUND NEAR SCENE OF DEED.

FAMILY UNDER SURVEILLANCE

Victim Is About 60 Years Old, and a Pioneer Citizen of This Vicinity. Mrs. Yates Is His Third Wife. Arrests Promised by Police.

Yelverton L. Atkins, about 60 years of age, of 111 Gymkin street, Arensdale, an addition to Colorado City, was mysteriously shot in the back as he was [illegible] his barn door at 6 o'clock [illegible] night. His condition is critical, and, on account of his advanced age and the nature of the wound, he probably will not recover.

That an attempt at cold-blooded murder was made, the police are fully convinced. An investigation was made a short time after the shooting, and as a result a number of persons in the neighborhood, including the victim's wife and 15-year-old stepdaughter, are under surveillance. Chief of Police E. N. Wolfe of Colorado City announced last night that an arrest or two shortly will be made.

Atkins is well known in Colorado City. He is an old resident of that vicinity and recently has been conducting a grocery business in the vicinity of his home. He married Mrs. Atkins, who is his third wife, about a year ago. The couple and Mrs. Atkins' daughter live alone in the house.

A Shotgun Closing Door.

According to information secured by the police, Atkins went to the barn which is in the rear of his house, to close the door, at the suggestion of his wife. The shot was fired just as he was taking hold of the door and had partially closed it. The bullet entered to the right of his spinal column and plowed into the fleshy part of his shoulder. He was able to reach the house unassisted.

The police were notified shortly afterward, and Dr. C. B. Gilmore was immediately summoned to attend the injured man. Chief Wolfe later called other physicians and a watch was kept at his bedside all night.

The police believe that whoever fired the shot stood inside of the barn and that the revolver, a .38-caliber Forearm gun, was held within two feet of the victim's back. The smell of powder was noticeable on his clothing. The revolver was found on the ground outside of the barn, about 30 feet from the door. It was fully loaded, with the exception of the exploded cartridge.

It is believed that Atkins, whose habits are largely those of a recluse, had succeeded in amassing a considerable fortune, but no direct connection with this fact is found in the shooting. Atkins dressed the affair after he had received medical attention, and stated that, so far as he is aware, he has no enemies. He has several sons, one of whom is said to live in Woodland Park. No children reside near him other than his wife and stepdaughter.

"DOGGIES REPAIRED AS GOOD AS NEW"

I. DEVILE FIXES LEG AND REPLACES TAIL OF CANINE.

Dog Lives, Contrary to Business, Saves Life, and Dog Goes on Way Rejoicing.

Plaintively appealing for sympathy from a morbidly curious crowd of bystanders, a little fox terrier dog lay for nearly an hour at the corner of Fifth street and Colorado avenue, Colorado City, yesterday afternoon, suffering intense agony from injuries received under the wheels of a street car. Its leg had been terribly mangled, and the tail cut in twain as though with a knife.

Irvin Beyle, the undertaker, was passing by from a Christmas entertainment. He heard the pitiful cries of the suffering animal, and, brushing aside the crowd, lifted the little dog from the pavement into his arms.

Nestled closely in his arms, Beyle carried the dog into his undertaking establishment, not to fit it into a coffin, but to save its life, if possible.

Amputates Leg.

With the dexterity of a practiced surgeon, he amputated the mangled limb, not forgetting to arrange the length of the bandages so that they supplemented the missing part. Then he carefully cleansed the severed end of the tail and fastened it to the place where it belonged.

Beyle then set the dog upon its feet to see what it would do. With an expression of appreciation in its eyes, a feeble wag of the bandaged tail, and a bark of gratitude, the little dog hobbled down the street, apparently "as good as new."

THOUSANDS BEG FOR WORK IN ENGLAND

DESTITUTION IS DARK SIDE OF CHRISTMAS.

Dinners Are Given to Hungry by Charitable Institutions—Appeal Is Many and Urgent.

LONDON, Dec. 25.—The dark side of the English Christmas is the great number of unemployed and distressed poor of London, and suffering. This is seen principally in London and at Glasgow, and along the Tyne and other shipbuilding centers, where many establishments have been closed, and thousands of men are out of work.

A small band of shabbily-dressed, miserable-looking unemployed persons have paraded the fashionable shopping streets during the past week, threading their way along the lines of motor cars and the crowds of aristocratic Christmas shoppers. The police accompanied the band as it marched, in order to prevent disturbances. Its members shouted in unison as they marched:

"We want work."

More than a thousand homeless men assemble on the Thames embankment every midnight to get tickets to Salvation Army shelters. The army, however, is able to accommodate but half the crowd, and the others disperse, many of them being obliged to spend the nights out of doors. The newspapers daily record cases of men being sentenced to imprisonment for stealing food, who plead that they are starving, or have families suffering from want. The appeals to charitable organizations for help were never so numerous or urgent.

The Salvation Army and other charitable organizations today gave dinners to many thousands of destitute persons, but these Christmas dinners were not a drop in the bucket when compared with the needs of the unemployed.

JOHNSON WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

NEGRO GETS DECISION OVER BURNS ON POINTS.

FIGHT GOES ONLY 14 ROUNDS

POLICE STEP IN TO PREVENT FURTHER PUNISHMENT.

DID THE BEST HE COULD

French-Canadian Is Game to the Last, but Is Practically Outclassed by Black Man—Battle of Heavyweights Attracts 20,000 People.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Dec. 25.—Jack Johnson, the big negro from Galveston, Tex., is the world's heavyweight champion pugilist. He won the title today in the big arena at Rushcutters Bay, from Tommy Burns, the French Canadian, who had held it since J. J. Jeffries relinquished it, and after a chase of Burns that led half way around the world.

The end came in the fourteenth round when the police, seeing Burns tottering and unable to defend himself from the savage blows of his opponent, mercifully stopped the fight. The announcement was made that if, during the contest the police should interfere, a decision should be rendered on points, and Referee McIntosh declared the black man a winner, for all through the fight he had shown himself Burns' master in every style of fighting.

Burns, in an interview after he had gone to his dressing room, said:

Did the Best He Could.

"I did the best I could and fought hard. Johnson was too big and his reach was too great."

Johnson appeared fresh after the fight, while Burns' eyes were badly puffed and his mouth swollen to twice its normal size. He fought a game battle and showed indomitable pluck but he was no match for the big Texan black.

Twice only in the annals of pugilism has a colored man been permitted to fight for the title, emblematic of the world's championship. The first time Jack Johnson tried it with John L. Sullivan, but Sullivan would not consent to a go. After James J. Jeffries took the scalp of Bob Fitzsimmons, he took on Hank Griffin at Los Angeles, but the colored man was easy for him and never had a chance to win the honor. He was knocked out in four rounds. Jeffries then faced the color line and several years later retired.

Johnson had tried to get on a fight with him, but which proved to be unavailing. Then Tommy Burns, or Noah Brusso, as his name really is, took up the mantle of Jeffries. Since then and until today Johnson has endeavored to get him into the ring, declaring that he was Burns' master.

Fight for Purse of $35,000.

The fight was for a purse of $35,000, of which Burns received $20,000, Johnson $5,000. The ring was a 24 foot ring and was pitched in the center of a big arena, built especially for the purpose at Rushcutters Bay. The bout was to have been for 20 rounds.

The day dawned overcast and cool. Thousands of persons from all parts of the country were attracted to the scene of the encounter, and many reached there Christmas night and slept in the open. They came by street cars, automobiles, carriages and on horseback, and at 10 o'clock this morning, one hour before the fight was scheduled to start, every seat was occupied. The prices of seats ranged from $2.50 to $25.

The crowd was estimated at between 18,000 and 20,000, and it kept perfect order throughout the fight. A brass band enlivened the holiday throng.

Before the principals entered the ring, Bill Squires, who twice has been defeated by Burns, challenged the winner.

Burns weighed in at 168 pounds and Johnson at 198.

The betting was 7 to 4 on Burns at the start, but it veered after a few rounds to 2 to 1 on Johnson.

The spectators conceded that Johnson's victory was due to his physical advantage over Burns, his superior knowledge of the fighting game and his unruffled demeanor, while being taunted by the champion.

The stakes were paid the men while in the ring.

SPORTS.

At 10:42 o'clock Johnson entered the arena accompanied by his seconds—Sam Fitzpatrick, Mullens, Unholz, Lang and Bryant. Wild cheers greeted him and the big black man turned and bowed to all four sides of the ring. Just as Johnson took his seat, Burns appeared. He was smiling and the plaudits of the spectators were even more enthusiastic than those accorded Johnson. Burns took up his post in the western corner of the ring, surrounded by his seconds—Keating,

MINES AND MILLS OF DISTRICT CLOSE

CRIPPLE CREEK OBSERVES THE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY.

Employes Kindly Remembered—Employers Good Feeling Exists.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 25.—The Christmas holiday was generally observed in the district and without exception every mine and mill was closed down, the ore trains rested in their stables, and the sampling plants were closed.

The good feeling existing between the employer and employe was manifested yesterday when, at a number of mines and samplers, substantial gifts were made to the men. Superintendents and shift bosses were likewise remembered by the men under them at a number of mines.

At the Portland, as each man went off shift in the afternoon he was presented with a $5 gold piece in the name of the Portland Gold Mining company by General Manager F. M. Kurtz or Superintendent F. L. Wilson. The payroll of this corporation carries 500 names, and the Christmas gift accordingly will represent $2,500.

The Vindicator Consolidated Gold Mining company, through Superintendent F. J. Trevarrow, gave to each of the men at the main Vindicator and Hull City shifts a $5 gold piece each.

General Manager Nelson Franklin of the Eagle-Ore company presented every employe, from office boy to assistant manager, with a cash bonus, ranging from a $5 gold piece to the company's check for $100. The four train crews, employed in switching ore to and from the company's sampling plant on Battle mountain—20 men in all—were also remembered with a $5 gold piece.

The mill men at the old Taylor and Brunton sampler on Bull hill, owned and operated by the Copeland Sampling company, were presented with a $5 gold piece by General Manager E. G. Copeland.

The Cripple Creek Sampling and Ore company, George Fry, manager, instructed its treasurer to add a day's pay to the check of each man as a Christmas gift.

Cigars were passed around at a number of properties operated by lessees, and acceptable gifts were sent to the miners' homes by many lease operators.

At no time in the district's history has the good feeling existing in all classes engaged in the mining industry and its co-ordinate branches been more expressly demonstrated.

SILVER CHANGES FELT IN ORIENT

FLUCTUATIONS IN PRICE OF WHITE METAL INJURIOUS.

CHINA NEEDS GOLD STANDARD

NO OTHER COUNTRIES SHOW SUCH BAD CONDITION.

CONSULAR REPORTS RECEIVED

National Monetary Commission Secures Information Which Will Be of Value to the World. Argument Furnished for Uniform System.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—That business conditions in the orient have been seriously embarrassed by fluctuations in the value of the white metal, has caused this commercial difficulty is shown by a large number of special consular reports received by the national monetary commission. These reports indicate that in Japan, where the gold standard is the basis of exchange, there has been no unsettled condition from that cause, but in China, with the silver standard, dealings with gold standard countries have been injuriously affected by changes in the price of silver, which make the profit of a transaction largely dependent on the trend of exchange. The prevailing statement of the reports is that prices are largely regulated by rates of exchange. These consular reports were called for by the statement at the request of Senator Lodge. Consular officers were requested to report what had been the tendency of prices since 1896, measured by silver currency, whether firms importing from the United States, Great Britain and Germany had found the depreciation of silver a matter of serious embarrassment to their business during the last year, and whether the depreciation of silver had stimulated considerably the export trade.

Charles Denby, consul general at Shanghai, China, says when silver is high, imports are increased and profits are made on goods stocks at lower prices. Silver falls, exports rise, importations become unprofitable and heavy losses result on goods in stock.

Trade Injured by Depreciation.

Importing firms, he says, have found their legitimate trade seriously embarrassed during the past 12 months by the depreciation of silver. This loss does not usually fall on the foreign wholesale importer, as he does not carry large stocks, but goods on commission for Chinese buyers. The recent large fluctuation in the value of local currency in comparison with gold, he adds, ruined hundreds of Chinese merchants who had dealings with foreigners.

Normally, he declares, this depreciation would have considerably stimulated the export trade, but the markets were so affected by other considerations that it was difficult to trace this influence. The foreign trade in general he says, has been disturbed since 1896 by fluctuations in the gold value of silver.

Julian H. Arnold, consul at Amoy, China, says that the foreign importing firms at Amoy all assert that the depreciation of silver during the past 12 months has seriously affected their business. Thomas Keenan, consul at New Chang, China, states there is no doubt that the depreciation of silver stimulates the exports of silver-using countries, but it is difficult to show this in any given article, that since 1896 the tendency of prices has been

LONGMONT HIGH IS CHAMPION OF WEST

COLORADO FOOTBALL TEAM WINS FROM CHICAGO.

Game Is Played in Denver on Field Ankle Deep in Mud. Score 13 to 0.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 25.—In a game for the High school championship of the west, the Longmont High school team of Longmont, Colo., defeated the team from the Englewood High school of Chicago, 13 to 0. The game was played on a field ankle deep with mud and slush. The condition of the field intereferd with end runs and forward passes, the players being unable to keep their footing and throw the ball with any accuracy.

Longmont scored two points in the first half. They kicked off the ball going behind their goal line. Chicago tried to run the ball out, but was thrown back for a safety. The play for the rest of the half was mostly in Chicago territory.

In the second half Longmont came back much stronger and rushed the boys from Chicago off their feet, scoring two touchdowns and a goal. Englewood kicked off and Longmont returned the kick to the center of the field. On the next play Benjamine carried the ball around left end for a touchdown. Booth kicked the goal. On the next kickoff, H. Scruby received the ball on Longmont's 25-yard line, and carried it to within 10 yards of the goal. From here, Longmont, by a series of line plunges, carried the ball over for the second touchdown. Booth failed to kick the goal. Neither side was able to advance the ball in the last few minutes of play, both sides kicking repeatedly.

H. Scruby's all-around playing was the feature of the game. He was followed closely by Benjamine of the same team, and by Pliska of Chicago. Piper also played a strong game for the visitors.

TRIED TO PULL M. FALLIERE'S BEARD

FANATIC ATTACKS PRESIDENT OF FRANCE ON STREET.

Claimed to Be Royalist, Who Had [illegible] a Bill of "Grievances."

PARIS, Dec. 25.—While Armand Fallieres, the president of France, accompanied by M. Ramondou, his secretary, and Colonel Lasson, military attache at the Elyse palace, was taking a morning stroll near Rue De L'Etoile today, a poorly clad individual, who evidently had been lying in wait, suddenly jumped on the president from behind and threw his arms about M. Fallieres's neck in an effort to seize his beard.

Colonel Lasson and Secretary Ramondou sprang to the assistance of the president, dragged off his assailant and turned him over to two special detectives, who had been following the party on bikes.

President Fallieres cane was broken in the struggle, but beyond a scratch on the ear he was not injured and insisted on continuing his walk.

Wanted to Pull President's Beard.

As the detectives slipped the handcuffs on the man, he cried:

"I am unarmed. I simply wanted to pull the president's beard."

When searched at the station house, the president's assailant proved to be Jean Mattis, a cafe waiter, 24 years of age, and a native of the department of Savoie. Medals of General Mercier, the former minister of war, stamps bearing the head of the Duke of Orleans, a card of membership in the

$100,000,000 A YEAR FOR NAVY

U. S. PAYS THIS SUM FOR PRESTIGE ON HIGH SEAS.

MORE SHIPS STILL THE CRY

NAVY DEPARTMENT WANTS FOUR MORE WARSHIPS.

BIG CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

One Scout Cruiser for every Battleship Is Asked, which Would Mean Outlay of $40,000,000. Wickersham Discusses Navy and Gaynor's Views.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

The American people are paying $100,000,000 a year for the maintenance of their prestige on the high sea. If Congress follows the recommendations of the naval authorities, in 10 years or less, we will be paying twice as much. We now have 25 battleships built and building; two more have been provided for, and four are waiting to be launched off the congressional ways. These make a total of 35. In the next 10 years the number will probably be brought up to 40. Based on the cost of maintaining a battleship last year, this would require an annual outlay of $25,000,000 for battleship maintenance.

The navy department estimates that there ought to be at least one scout cruiser for every battleship. This would mean an outlay of $40,000,000 for construction and perhaps $14,000,000 a year for maintenance. Then the navy department figures that there ought to be four torpedo boat destroyers for every battleship. That would mean the construction of about 120 in addition to those we now have. The cost of constructing these would be about $75,000,000, and the cost of maintaining the entire 160 would be more than $12,000,000 a year, and the yearly amount would be twice as great as the present total annual appropriation for the navy.

Insurance Against War.

But a navy built after this program would be a great insurance against war. Well [illegible] as it is probably for such a power to be made, it could meet and overthrow any comer, with the possible exception of Great Britain. When we consider the thousands of miles of exposed coast line, scattered in every sea, which that power must defend, America would have more than an even chance of making the British lion bite the dust of defeat a third time. It seems that the American people are not worried about the added expense a big navy may entail; they appear to regard it as the cheapest insurance against a foreign war that the United States can have. Even in a rural Alabama district a Republican head went down before a Hepburn when the latter advocated a great navy.

The navy department wants four battleships this year, and will probably want four each succeeding year for some time to come. And it wants them to be of a kind which can give the Dreadnaught pointers in a fight. It seems that all recent thought in naval circles tends toward the biggest possible ship. It is said that 10 battleships of the North Dakota type, with a broadside fire of four 12-inch guns, eighty in all, would cost $100,000,000. Twenty smaller vessels mounting no more than eighty big guns would cost $130,000,000 to build. The maintenance of the ten North Dakotas would require about ten million dollars a year, and of the 20 battleships, at least fifteen millions. The [illegible] depreciation has af[illegible] trade supporters to serious [illegible] of being unable to [illegible] prices from the [illegible] and that this depreciation has not stimulated the export trade to the extent expected in the [illegible] of Albert W. Pontius, vice consul general at Hangkow, China. In the natural course of events, he says, the low exchange promotes exports and precludes imports and vice versa.

Salvation of Importers.

"It is believed by some of our merchants" says Samuel Gracy, consul at Foo Chow, China, "that the depreciation of silver has practically been the salvation of the importing firms as the Chinaman has been unable to buy as freely from foreign countries as he can from those with stocks in the east, they having been brought when the exchange was high."

Stuart J. Fuller, vice consul general at Hong Kong, says he learns from importers of cotton goods that the fall in silver in the last 12 months has not substantially diminished the demand for cotton goods.

With regard to exports he adds that while the general tendency of a low exchange is to stimulate exports, this was more than counteracted during the year by the general financial depression in Europe and America.

That the prices of commodities at Canton, China, have, generally speaking, considerably advanced since 1896, that the depreciation of silver, during the last year, has offered no serious embarrassment to importing firms, and that any depreciation in silver does not increase the export trades, as the fall is generally compensated by a rise in the local cost, which means that the home buyer pays the same price in gold, is the opinion of Willard H. Hull, vice consul general at Canton. Speaking of Korea, Consul General Thomas Sammons, at Seoul, says that trade conditions there are not much affected by the rate for the exchange of silver, the country practically having a gold standard through its use of Japanese currency.

China Only Affected.

"Of the principal countries having business relations with Kobe, Japan," says Vice Consul Walter Gaisett, "the United States, Great Britain, British India, Germany and China, only one of these China has been affected by the rise in the rate of exchange, China having a silver currency, while Japan is on a gold basis."

Consul General Henry B. Miller, at Oklahoma says, Japan not being a silver country, the decline in the rate of exchange has had no effect on trade conditions there.

Carl F. M. Deitchman, consul at Mansui, Formosa, says that importing firms have felt no serious embarrassment to their business from the depreciation of silver during the past 12 months as their buying and selling prices are both in gold.

Referring to conditions in Manchuria, Consul Roger S. Greene, at Dalny, states that the Japanese merchants there have not hesitated to attribute the dullness of business in all lines and, particularly in the cotton goods trade, to the depreciation of silver.

Frederick D. Cloud, vice consul general at Antung, China, says the enormous decline in the rate of exchange of silver during the period of one year's work is a great hardship not only on

O'Keefe, O'Donnell, Burke and Ryan all. When the cheering had died down somewhat, Johnson crossed over and shook Burns by the hand. The Canadian glanced at the big mauleys of the Texan and noticed that both were covered with bandages. Fearful that they might not be of the soft, surgical kind, he scrutinized them closely, but finding them to his satisfaction, made no objection.

Burns Wore Plaster Bandages.

"Then Burns stripped it was noticed that he wore adhesive plaster about his elbows. Johnson shouted across the ring half angrily: "You must take those off."

Then the men met in the center of the ring and for a few minutes argued the question. Then they retired again to their corners, but Burns did not remove the bandages.

From Johnson's seconds came the announcement that their man refused to fight unless Burns took off the wraps around his elbows, and it looked as though there was a possibility of the fight not taking place for Burns was stubborn and Johnson insistent on the point. The referee, however, here took a hand in the controversy and said the wearing of bandages was not against the rules. Johnson still demurred, nevertheless, and Burns with a show of impatience had his seconds unwind the tape. His action brought forth from the spectators a tremendous round of applause.

At 11:15 o'clock Burns posed for the moving picture machine, and had received final instructions from Referee McIntosh, and retired to their corners. Then the battle began.

First Round.

After a few moments of preliminary sparring, Johnson reached Burns with a sharp uppercut, and the Canadian went to the floor, remaining there for the count of eight. He signaled to his seconds that he was all right, however, and when he arose, sailed in for Johnson's body. Johnson swung a hard right to the head, and Burns staggered backwards nearly across the ring from the impact of the blow. Then Burns, rushing in, planted a right of great force on Johnson's chin, and, by an excellent display of boxing, warded off a return. Johnson, nevertheless, managed to put through a stinging left to the head at the sound of the gong.

Second Round.

When the gong clanged, Johnson yelled across to the approaching Burns, "Come right on," and he swung his right and landed on Burns' chin. The champion's ankle gave way under him, and he went down. He was up immediately, however, and Johnson got to close quarters with him, and placed his right and left to face and body. Burns' left eye here began to swell. Johnson thus far had the better of the battle. The big black man was rushing all the time, and he swung a terrific left into Burns' stomach. Burns was doing but little. He was bleeding from the mouth, and apparently was tired. The men were clinched as the bell rang.

Third Round.

Burns swung his right to Johnson's head, and then did some wonderful execution at infighting, chopping his right to the ribs frequently. Johnson, during the round, landed some terrific blows to the kidneys.

Fourth Round.

When the men met in the center of the ring, Johnson shot a heavy right into Burns' ribs. The men talked wildly to one another, each seemingly intent upon sending the other excited and landing the money-winning punch. During the jeering they sparred fiercely, but few blows being struck. Then Johnson swung a left to the body, and Burns brought right to head. Johnson, closing in, threw a terrific right and left to the head of the Canadian. The bell found the men in a hard clinch.

Fifth Round.

Apparently freshened from his minute's rest, Burns started the round briskly, landing his right on Johnson's head and punching the body with both hands. Johnson managed to slip over a few rights to the head during the round.

Sixth Round.

Johnson rushed and Burns clinched. Breaking loose, however, with one hand Johnson swung his right a dozen times into the white man's ribs. Burns jolted Johnson's body frequently, and swung his right hard over the ribs, and put a stiff left to the stomach several times. Johnson, however, treated these blows as a joke, laughing at the crowd and making sarcastic remarks to his opponent as he hustled Burns into a corner and scored a couple of rights to the body.

Seventh Round.

Johnson rushed Burns across the ring, dealing out rights in which there was no mercy. Burns got a left to Johnson's jaw, and Johnson raised a lump under Burns' right eye in return. Burns here seemed to be losing strength. Johnson was landing repeatedly on Burns' eye, meanwhile addressing the people around the ringside, and, though Tommy was working dexterously at infighting, he placed several terrific blows to Burns' ribs, dropping him to the floor for a few seconds.

Eighth Round.

Burns' eyes were puffed up and he was bleeding from the mouth when he emerged from his corner. The white man's blows apparently had little effect on the [illegible] who went savagely about belaboring the head of the champion.

Ninth Round.

"Come on Tommy, swing your right," yelled Johnson, as the gong rang. Burns responded by calling the negro a "yellow dog." There was not much fighting—probably more talking—during this round.

Tenth Round.

Both men seemed tiring. Johnson still used his fists effectively on Burns' head and stomach and Burns was doing all he could in reply. His blows, however, lacked steam.

Eleventh Round.

The perspiration pouring off the body of Johnson made it look not unlike highly polished walnut. Burns tried to cross his right over, but Johnson cleverly avoided him, meanwhile laughing at the champion. Burns is outclassed, and Johnson apparently is invulnerable. When the bell rang Burns limped to his corner.

Twelfth Round.

Again Johnson sailed in and Burns took a tremendous lot of punishment gamely. His jaw is greatly swollen.

Thirteenth Round.

Johnson continued to play for the injured eye and the bleeding mouth of Burns, which was swollen twice its normal size. Blow after blow the colored man rained upon him, and the gong alone saved the white man from defeat, for he was reeling and groggy as it rang. During the intermission between the thirteenth and fourteenth rounds the police officials consulted together and the probability is that they will stop the fight in the next round.

Referee McIntosh went to Burns' corner and had a talk with the champion, who declared that he was strong.

McIntosh then asked the police not to interfere.

Fourteenth Round.

Johnson went right after Burns when time was called. Burns warily backed away, but Johnson, following him up, dropped Burns with a right to the head.

"One, two, three" slowly counted the referee, and Burns remained down until eight seconds had been reeled off. When he arose Johnson flew at him like a tiger, and using both hands unmercifully, soon had the champion tottering. The police then jumped into the ring and stopped the fight.

The referee immediately declared Johnson the winner.

He added that he considered it the best fight he had ever witnessed in Australia, and that both men had fought most fairly.

First Negro Champion.

Jack Johnson is the first negro who ever won the world's heavyweight pugilistic championship—in fact, he is the only negro who ever was permitted to battle for the honor. He was born in Galveston, Tex., in 1878 and began his ring career in 1901.

During his ring career, Johnson has fought 64 battles, and 22 of his opponents have gone down to defeat by the knockout route. Prominent of those who have been put to sleep by the big black are Jack Jeffries, a brother of former heavyweight champion, who was knocked out by Johnson at Los Angeles in 1902 in five rounds, and Bob Fitzsimmons, who in Philadelphia, in 1907, was unable to withstand Johnson's shifty work but two rounds. He has lost but two fights, one a 20 round decision to Marvin Hart and the other on a foul to Joe Jeanette.

Not since the day of James J. Corbett has the prize ring been so perfect a boxer as Johnson. Long and lithe, he is as graceful as a dancing master and [illegible] as an [illegible] in placing his blows, especially with his [illegible] boxers, unless they have great skill, are able to keep the big black man from [illegible] their faces to tatters.

In courage, Burns was a bulldog always. Johnson, it was said by some, had a "yellow streak." In none of his many battles, however, has it been proven that Johnson would not take a good beating. Neither Burns nor Johnson, however, have been considered men of the stamp of Jeffries, Sullivan or Corbett in the fighting [illegible]

Burns Rough and Ready Fighter.

Burns was born in Hanover, Ont., in 1881, and started fighting when he was [illegible] and one-fourth inches in height and weighs when trained for battle about 175 pounds. Burns always was a rough and ready fighter who delighted to roll in and mix things with his adversary. Favored with great length of arms his reach measuring six inches, Burns has proved himself a bad man at close range. Despite the fact that Johnson overtopped him in height by 6½ inches, Burns had the better of the argument in reach by one and three-fourths inches.

According to reports both Johnson and Burns bet heavily on themselves at the prevailing odds, which slightly favored Burns at the ringside. The fighters were trained to the hour and fought before what probably was the largest crowd that ever witnessed a pugilistic contest. Burns did his training at Darling Point, while Johnson got into condition at Manly, a seaside suburb. Besides a retinue of trainers, who gave the men daily practice at the game of hit, stop and get away, both Burns and Johnson followed American training methods by doing hard road work. Each man picked up a lot of loose change by giving training exhibitions twice a week at the stadium.

Distress in Stomach

YOUR PAIN NOW RELIEVED BY A DOSE OF SIMPLE.

All Your Suffering [illegible] a Will Vanish or Indigestion Is Only Momentary and Will Be Cured Quickly.

You haven't Catarrh of the Stomach, or Nervousness, or Gastritis, or Cancer, etc. Prove this by taking Pape's Diapepsin after your very best meal. Convince yourself within five minutes that your actual disease was sour, Acid, which makes you feel sick and that every bite you eat turned to Stomach gas, Stomach poison and acid, which makes you feel sick and miserable, producing such symptoms as pain in the pit of the stomach, Difficulty in breathing after a meal, Headaches, Belching, Heartburn, Nauseous breath, Water brash, Biliousness, Sour Risings, Gas on Stomach and many other bad feelings.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause, of your misery. If the Stomach is sour, your food becomes tainted, and that's why you have these stomach disorders.

Ask your pharmacist to show you a case of Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only 50 cents. Read what this effective Stomach and digestive treatment contains, and how absolutely harmless it must be; how it does for the Stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn; absolutely removes every corrupting or tainting element, and will digest all the food you can eat.

Go to your druggist and get some Diapepsin now, then eat anything you want at your next meal, and you will not suffer from Indigestion or Stomach trouble. Each bite of food will taste good, and, besides, you will not need liver regulators to keep your intestines and Stomach clean and fresh.

Now and forever rid yourself of the misery of Indigestion and Stomach trouble. Make your meals a pleasure by going to the table with a healthy appetite.

RACE TO DEATH IN AN AUTO

One Killed, Three Others Badly Hurt, at Oakland, Cal.—Machine Was Speeding With Another.

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 25.—As a result of a wild auto race on the foothill on the boulevard, early today, one man was instantly killed and another man and two young women were severely injured. The accident occurred a short distance from San Leande county.

The dead:

WILLIAM L. MOWRY, chauffeur.

The injured:

A. Jorgenson.

Miss Marie Jorgenson, his sister.

Mary Jensen.

Mowry, with his party, was racing with another machine, driven by John Morgan. The former machine came to grief on a sharp and dangerous double turn, which Mowry attempted to make while going at terrific speed. The automobile broke away from the control of its driver, skidded to one side, struck the curb and turned completely over. Mowry was caught and pinioned under his machine. The steering wheel rested on his neck, and the back of the front seat had crushed his chest. Death was almost instantaneous. The others were thrown clear of the wreck, and to this fact they owe their lives.

TWO PARDONS GRANTED

Pachtel Issues Usual Christmas Gifts to Convicts.

CANON CITY, Colo., Dec. 25.—Mike Mandrich, No. 849, serving a life sentence for murdering a saloonkeeper at Leadville, and Clara Humphrey, No. 5623, sentenced from Pueblo, received the executive pardons granted by Governor Buchtel today.

Mandrich's takes effect today and Clara Humphreys on New Years day. Warden Cleghorn relaxed prison regulations today and the inmates were allowed to converse and were entertained at a band concert and a vaudeville performance.

DUEL TO DEATH IN THE DARK

Two Cleveland Youths Fight Until Twelve for Hand of 14-Year-Old Girl.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 25.—A duel to the death with knives in a dark room Christmas evening, between two suitors for the hand of 14-year-old Julia Pice, resulted in the death of Powell Fromich and the serious injury of Michael Milanovitch, who is under arrest on the charge of murder. Fromich's brother was probably fatally stabbed when he attempted to separate the fighting men.

The girl was struck by Milanovitch and badly hurt.

Both Fromich and Milanovitch had pressed their suit and proposed marriage to the girl. She refused each in his turn. Each thought the other the cause of his rejection. Both men were boarders in the Pice home.

Milanovitch is said to have gone to Fromich's room and accused the latter of stealing his sweetheart.

"I am going to kill you for it," the police say he threatened. Then ensued the fatal fight. The men rushed at each other and also at Fromich's brother, who he tried to act as peace maker.

WRECK ON GREAT NORTHERN

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 25.—A wreck on the Great Northern, one mile west of Elmira, Ida., 90 miles east of Spokane, at 8:40 this morning, resulted in the death of Charles Mackey, a fireman on a passenger train known as the Bonners Ferry local, and the injury of four others, two trainmen and two passengers.

The injured are:

Rev. J. T. Kelly, back injured.

Henry Keefer, slightly injured.

Engineer J. E. Bostwick, cut under the eye.

Brakeman Eaton, slightly injured.

$100,000,000 A YEAR FOR NAVY

North Dakota fleet would require 8,000 men and 200 officers to man it. The other would require 16,000 men and 400 officers.

Efficiency of Guns.

The relative efficiency of guns is a matter on which there is a wide difference of opinion. It will be recalled that it was the 13-inch gun that told the tale during the Spanish-American war. Then other navies began to use the 12-inch gun, taking the ground that it would penetrate the armor of a battleship as efficiently as a 13-inch shell. Admiral Evans concedes the justice of that argument, but calls attention to the difference of efficiency after the shell gets inside the armor. He says that a 13-inch shell will hold 80 pounds of powder, while a 12-inch missile will hold but fifty. And he sets that fighting jaw of his in its sternest notch as he contemplates what 80 pounds of high explosives would do to an enemy's ship when safely inside its armor.

Admiral Evans is in favor of the government acquiring all the anthracite coal beds of the United States and holding all the coal for the navy. He points out that it is the best coal in the world, and would give the American navy a tactical advantage over every other sea power. He estimates that it would cost eighteen billion dollars to buy the coal beds, but that it would not be necessary to pay for them all at once, giving hundred-year bonds for them. "Imagine," says he, "clouds of inky blackness shooting up into the air two hundred feet, and trailing to stern for ten miles. That is a picture of the ordinary commercial steamer running under a draft which is intended to husband a coal supply. Then imagine a battleship, its engines being forced to their utmost power, giving off many times the volume of smoke. Then add to that ten times as much for a fleet, and you will begin to see what an immense signal spread the burning of bituminous coal gives to an enemy, and how impossible it is to surprise an enemy in ordinary weather."

Near Disaster.

Admiral Evans then points out how near to disaster Dewey came as he entered Manila Bay. The little McCullough, hard pressed to keep the race set by Dewey's fleet, came hurrying into the bay, spouting flames from its funnels. The forts at Corregidor Island rang the alarm and trained its guns on the pirate vessel. The rest of the fleet was past the range of the land guns before its presence was discovered. He draws a lesson from Port Arthur, and ventures the belief that the Union's successful blockade of southern ports was due to the fact that the blockade runners of the southern Confederacy were forced to use bituminous coal, while the Federal vessels all used anthracite. He argues that oil is unsatisfactory as a battleship fuel, permitting of little forced draft, and that the obscuring of signals by smoke from bituminous coal might change victory into defeat.

There are those who believe that the time is here when there will be a letup in the great battleship building contest now being carried on by the leading nations. England is especially anxious that there should be. Years ago that country decided that its continued supremacy of the seas made it essential that a navy, slightly larger and stronger than those of any other two powers, should be maintained. During the past half dozen years there has been such remarkable activity in naval upbuilding in other countries that England finds itself sadly overworked. That nation does not relish the idea of giving up an ambitious program, yet to carry it out is such a heavy tax that it sometimes fears it cannot much longer stand the strain. Therefore, its good offices are always working in favor of less naval activity on the part of other countries.

Reason for Letup.

But there is a more important reason why there should be a letup in battleship building. The development of the submarine boat makes it uncertain when a battleship is going to be blown out of the water as it approaches a hostile shore. On the other hand, the development of the flying machine makes it more than possible that, with it working in the air in harmony with a submarine in the water, a battleship could be located to a nicety, and that its chance of escape with explosives both from above and below would be practically nil. One of the principal objections to the submarines has been its lack of observation facilities. Co-operating with the flying machine in an attack, this difficulty would come. It is not improbable that these considerations may lead to the conclusion that building $16,000,000 battleships is too much like putting all the eggs into one basket.

Were Have Lessons.

Every war has its lessons. Up to the time of the Spanish-American war all naval authorities reckoned the strength of navies on the basis of the number of guns and the tonnage of the ships. Little account was taken of the mettle of the men who manned a navy. But that war taught the lesson that both men and ships make a navy, with men as the most important factor. It was then that America came to her own as a sea power, and from that day down to the present it has been felt that America's naval strength had better be written as somewhat higher than guns and tonnage would show. There are three or four powers which have greater numbers of officers and men. The English navy has an available force of two and a half times that of the United States. France and Germany have forces nearly twice as strong as ours. But, withal, the American naval authorities think they have enough men to have one for every responsible place when it comes to a fight.

From the beginning of the new American navy in 1883—when the A, B, C and D, the Atlanta, the Boston, the Chicago and the Dolphin, were authorized—down to the present time the United States has spent less than $400,000,000 in building up the navy, but it has spent more than twice that much in maintaining it. According to figures of the cost of maintenance, the recommendations of the secretary of the navy for four battleships, four scout cruisers, ten destroyers, four submarines, three colliers, one repair ship and two mine-laying ships will involve an added annual expenditure of more than $6,000,000. It is estimated that the life of a battleship is 20 years. One battleship authorized means a total outlay of some twenty-five million dollars from the time of its authorization to the time of its relegation to the junk heap.

Inability to Compete.

One of the things that has seriously bothered American naval experts is the inability to compete with foreign shipyards in the rapidity of constructing a battleship. It is to take 32 months to build the Florida and it will surprise everybody if the contractors get it finished by that time. The best ever done in America was when the Vermont was completed in two years, nine months and 18 days. On the other hand, England turned out the Bellerophon in a little less than two years, and the Germans will complete the Nassau in less than two years and a half. The average period of construction in the United States has been about four years.

As to fighting qualities of the American battleship, despite all statements that have been made, the best English, German and French naval authorities admit that, considering vessels of the same period, the American ships have nothing to lose when compared with those of other nations. Comparing the Indiana or the Oregon with the Dreadnaught is no fairer to the American navy than it would be fair to England to compare the first 20 battleships of the English navy with our own North Dakota.

Patrie Française and other Royalist [illegible]

During the examination, Mattis boasted of being a Royalist, and talked confusedly of having done his "duty" and obeyed the dictates of his "conscience."

Heaps of Royalist reactionary literature were found by the police when they ransacked his residence.

May Have Been Royalist Plot.

The invitation reveals the fact that Mattis was in close relation with the Royalist organization, and this gives color to rumors that he was the instrument of a Royalist plot. Serious evidence in this direction, however, is lacking up to the present time, and it is likely that he is only a crack-brained individual, seeking notoriety, whose head has been turned by the campaign of scandal and villification which reactionary newspapers, like the Libre Parole and L'Action, have recently been conducting. They used the scandal in connection with the Steinheil affair to make every conceivable charge against the government, even to its being guilty of political murders, and insisted on the insinuation that the late President Faure was killed because he sided against Major Dreyfus.

Early this week the height of audacity was reached when the reactionary papers printed circumstantial stories to make it appear that President Fallieres' son, when found in the company of the wife of Phillippe Astresse, an advocate of the court of appeals, a year ago, shot and killed the attorney and that the police have hushed up the scandal. Authoritative information, subsequently proved that Young Fallieres did not even known Mme. Astresse.

PICTURE SHOWMEN PROTEST

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—More than 200 of New York city's 550 moving picture show men met today and protested against Mayor McClellan's action in revoking their licenses and closing their shows. A committee of 50 was appointed to report on a plan of organization to contest the enforcement of the mayor's decree. The mayor stated that renewals of licenses would only be granted to showmen whose places are conducted unobjectionably, who take proper precautions against fire, and pledge themselves not to open their places on Sundays. The mayor's order was rigidly enforced in Manhattan and the Bronx.

THE DOCTOR AS PHILANTHROPIST.

THIS extract from the Christmas sermon preached by the Rev. Arthur N. Taft, at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church yesterday, is worth thinking about.

And, my people, you and I know that of all this noble band who carry the burden of sickness and suffering, none do it more willingly and more nobly than do our doctors. It is easy to forget how much we owe to this profession, and to overlook how exalted is the ideal of service that controls their practice.

Why, just think of it! There is no other profession in which a person's need is the sole criterion of service. A man may be starving, but that does not throw open the doors of every bakery to him, nor does it put the baker under immediate obligation to supply his need. He may be perishing with cold, but that does not make it imperative, in the public estimation, that every dealer in fuel and clothing should immediately give of their store to his relief. They may do these things, if they are charitable, but it is not an obligation.

But the medical profession, because of their own high standards and their willingness to serve wherever there is need, have educated the public to expect that no sick person, however penniless, should die through lack of care.

Who is it that is carrying the burden of the sick poor in this town today? Week by week every kind of destitution comes before my committee in the Associated Charities, and we do the best we can to relieve their distress. But wherever sickness is concerned we know that we have only to ask of any of the physicians to gain for the poorest the best of care. It is a matter of medical etiquette. It has been as a matter of course because they obey the Christian law of service, and we too often take it for granted with little thanks, but now the less it is said that ... a faithful physician among those of whom Christ said, "Come ye blessed children of my Father, for I was sick and ye visited me."

It is quite the common thing to hear the doctor spoken of, half in envy, half in contempt and altogether in condemnation, as a man who gets his money too easily. Everybody has heard a complaint something like this: "I didn't feel well yesterday so I sent for Dr. Blank. He felt my pulse, looked at my tongue, asked a few questions and then wrote a prescription and charged me $3, although the whole thing didn't take him fifteen minutes. That's what I call highway robbery."

AS TO THE DOCTOR'S CHARGES.

Of course this sort of criticism is usually from those people who believe that professional services of any kind should be compensated according to the number of horsepower of muscular strength expended, instead of on the basis of skill and intelligence. At any rate it is entirely wrong for several reasons, one of which is that every doctor who is worth his salt has spent several years of time and a great deal of money studying and fitting himself for the practice of medicine before he is able to earn a cent. Another reason—and the one most frequently overlooked—is the one emphasized by Mr. Taft in the passage here quoted. The doctor who charges one patient $50 for taking him through a severe illness may perform a like, or even greater, service for the next patient for nothing.

Every reputable physician recognizes the necessity of doing a great deal of charity work—a necessity—as Mr. Taft pointed out—imposed by the ethics of his profession. If he refused to answer a midnight call to attend a difficult case for which he knew he would receive no pay he would deserve, and receive, the contempt of every other doctor and of the community at large. That is why he charges every patient according to his ability to pay, and thus it happens that the millionaire may be charged $100 for having his cold cured, while the poor laborer who is out of work may be attended through a long attack of typhoid fever for nothing. The rich pay for the poor.

Mr. Taft has stated the case convincingly. You may be cold and hungry, but if you have neither money or credit you have no claim on the men who sell food, fuel or clothing. But if you are poor and sick you have a claim on the doctor that he can not ignore. He is your best friend, and "a friend in need is a friend indeed."

DANCER FROM HOT ASHES.

FOUR fires, three of them caused by the careless dumping of hot ashes, occurred during the big windstorm last Thursday. Fortunately, none of them was serious, but that wasn't the fault of the people who dumped the ashes.

Imagine what would happen if a fire got well started in a closely built-up neighborhood during one of those 60-mile-an-hour windstorms, especially at night. The Fire Department, if it were four times as big and as well equipped as it is, couldn't stop it. There would be nothing to do but save as much movable property as possible out of the track of the flames and pray for a cessation of the wind. The old Antlers burned in such a gale ten years ago, and a great deal of other [illegible] the whole town was effected only by luck and the aid of firemen from Denver and Pueblo.

It is important to note that while fires are always unusually numerous during times of high wind, nearly all of them are caused by hot ashes, and are therefore entirely avoidable. The practice of throwing ashes anywhere except in a closed receptacle is dangerous in the extreme, and those who persist in it ought to be severely punished by law. If permitted, it will be only a matter of time until a disastrous fire will exact the penalty, and then, of course, the city authorities will follow the usual course of locking the barn door after the horse is stolen. The better way would be to make a few arrests now, and keep it up until the dangerous practice is stopped.

WE TOLD YOU SO.

IT IS never too late to point a moral. The Gazette is not in the habit of saying "We told you so," but it can't refrain with a clear conscience from doing it now. This paper, as do all others, gives advice and expresses its views on various and diverse subjects day in and day out, in the belief that it is right most of the time. But whether right or wrong, its advice is given in the best of faith and must be taken for what it is worth.

Now we are going to say a little about Thursday's wind storm. It is not necessary to say much, in fact, it would be painful to discuss the subject at length.

Of course, The Gazette is not the Weather Man and did not know the storm was coming any more than you knew it. But it did know, just as you know, that such a thing was possible, and that's the reason—at least one of the reasons—why it advised you to do your Christmas shopping early. When we did so we had in mind the gale on the day before Christmas last year. That storm doubtless prevented many people who had put off their buying till the last minute from making their purchases, not only disappointing them, but also the merchants. And it was partly through fear of another storm during Christmas week that The Gazette repeatedly urged early shopping this season. Sure enough the storm came and it was another with the one that played havoc on the same day last year. There was less dust in the air, because of the recent snows, but the wind blew as hard, and shopping was made almost as disagreeable. No doubt there are hundreds of people in the city who are now sorry they didn't heed The Gazette's advice.

It is all over now, but there is another Christmas coming next year, and the next, and as often as they roll around just so often will the same advice hold good—shop early.

LAMBS.

From the Buffalo Times.

Experience isn't much of a teacher when it comes to speculating on margins.

INCREASING THE "E" RELATIVE.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

Candidates for the Ananias club are never kept long on the waiting list.

AND HOW DID MR. CROKER GET HIS?

From the Baltimore American.

Now Mr. Croker is deprecating the American rush for dollars. But there are very few of us who can have money seek the man as it apparently did Mr. Croker himself. The expressed disgust of those who have with those who are trying to get is not without its element of humor.

ANANIAS CLUB.

From the Baltimore American.

The Ananias club is working overtime in the admission of new members, more or less involuntary. This club has now one of the most prominent membership lists in the country and concerning its [illegible] "three-letter" is being freely passed in highly distinguished society.

THE HORSE WILL SURVIVE.

From the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The opening of the horse show reminds us that the horse is not only extinct, but an object of great and affectionate interest to men and women. It is frequently assumed that the horse is doomed. Some think automobiles will supplant him. Others that racing restrictions will deal him a deadly blow. Others that men are losing interest in the species in the charm of more rapid means of locomotion. But the chances are that when automobiling are much more generally used, when racing is again in favor, the horse will still be occupying the prominent place that he now has in the census reports, and that shows will arise from time to time to do honor to the finer breeds.

NOT THE MAN, BUT THE MEN.

From the Washington Star.

It is not so much a question of leadership, or where the leader comes from, as it is a question of following. The most eminent and attractive southern man could not reach the White House with the aid of such allies as he would now have to accept in New York, Indiana, Illinois and elsewhere. The Democracy in those states, as a national factor, does not enjoy the respect of the country. Reorganization, from the ground up, is absolutely essential to success. It is certain to add to existing embarrassments, but it is bound to come. The life of the Democracy demands it.

MR. BRYAN TRUE TO HIS TRADITIONS.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

Mr. Bryan is now of the opinion that free silver would have averted the panic of last year. Also, he says he knows of no reason why the depositors of a ruined bank should not get their money immediately, concerning which there would be no difficulty in the presence of a guarantee. The inference is that when he runs for the presidency again he will star his free-coinage plank, lest we have another panic, and give conspicuity to the guarantee, lest depositors be inconvenienced. Then we could have the crown of thorns and cross of gold all over again, slightly the worse for wear, of course, but of hallowed memory. No newfangled harness for the old warhorse.

CENSURE MINISTRY, NOT KAISER.

From Collier's Weekly.

Despite an occasional speech in the reichstag, the German people have no intention of rebuking the kaiser. [illegible] their pride in him. Their resentment is directed against the ministry which failed to advise and restrain him. The kaiser's glaring indiscretion of telling all the truth was not his first episode of the kind; but reckless frankness is a lovable quality. The Germans think of the kaiser as the symbol of the nation, and they feel a hurt to him as to themselves. They like to think the king can do no wrong, and they are angry at the ministry which let him put himself in a false position. They want the ministry hereafter to be responsible to them, that they may the sooner punish it for failure in its duty toward the kaiser. Nevertheless, in effect [illegible] this.

"HIS PECULIAR CHARM."

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

The dinner of the National Civic federation drew out Judge Taft at his best. He extemporaneously reviewed the speeches preceding his own, and had himself called last, to enable him to do so.

When it is said that the speakers before him were Seth Low, Samuel Gompers, Andrew Carnegie, [illegible] Lewis, John Mitchell and the chief of the train conductors' organization and others, the skill Mr. Taft showed in covering the fields they outlined cannot be exaggerated.

It was the best and largest meeting the federation has yet held, and the most revealing and wise speech Mr. Taft has made since election. His extempore readiness, sagacity and humor were unsuspected and therefore the more delightful.

There was long a minstrel song of which the refrain was "His peculiar charm." Those words describe the superior effect on those who hear Mr. Taft to the one produced on those who merely read his words. The man's manner and personality cannot be conveyed by print.

A TAKING SUGGESTION.

From the Louisville Herald.

John D. Rockefeller has an article in a magazine on "The Difficult Art of Giving." It may be followed by another on "The Simple Science of Taking."

THE OUTLOOK FOR CONSERVATION.

From the New York Tribune.

To all who have observed with admiration President Roosevelt's efforts for the conservation of national resources it must be a source of satisfaction to note how completely in accord with that policy is the President-elect. Mr. Taft placed himself distinctly on record last Tuesday on several essential points. He advises making the plan for internal improvement comprehensive enough to include all parts of the country. If the vast expenditure required for most of these works cannot be met by annual appropriations, he favors the issue of bonds proposed by Mr. Roosevelt. Finally, since no one state is financially able to carry on such enterprises single handed, he realizes that co-operation between the states and the nation is demanded. Though such an indorsement was probably unnecessary, an affirmation of the legitimacy of the measures now under consideration by a constitutional lawyer of Judge Taft's experience is at least worthy of note.

THE "FREE" WORLD.

From the Chicago Post.

Mr. Pulitzer of the World, like Mr. Laffan of the Sun, sonorously proclaims himself grieved to the heart that the President of the United States should stoop to reprimand him in terms of anger.

This is disingenuous. Neither Mr. Laffan nor Mr. Pulitzer was grieved. On the contrary both were distinctly glad that Mr. Roosevelt spoke as President because the fact gave them this opportunity for a little sanctimonious pretence.

Nor is there much save this same false appearance of virtue in the whole Pulitzer reply. The World "cannot be muzzled" is the recurrent boast; "it will continue to be free."

"Free" we suppose, to print the prying impertinences that it has been spreading concerning Miss Katherine Elkins and Abruzzi; free to revel in and revive the filth of the Thaw trial; free to thrust every detail of the scandalous Hains-Annis murder into blatant type.

"Free" the World will continue to be, too, to give out flagrantly false interviews with shameless disregard of truth that Theodore Roosevelt "sold the Republican party, body and bones, to J. Pierpont Morgan;" free, finally, to buy in the open market a patent, political fabrication like the Panama sensation and give it all the publicity which its circulation manager can command.

With this sore of hypocrisy this country has no more patience than has Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Pulitzer will save himself from one more hard and disagreeable fall if he realizes this truth at once and does not try to set up shop as a public martyr.

ROOSEVELT, BRYAN AND THE SENATE.

From the Washington Star.

Mr. William E. Curtis in a New York letter to The Star sets it down as a certainty that Mr. Roosevelt will succeed Mr. Depew in the United States Senate. There are Democrats who hope to see Mr. Bryan become a member of the same body at the same time. But two years must elapse before a new senator, either in New York, or Nebraska, is chosen, and much may happen in that time to change the present aspect of affairs in both states. The Republicans are altogether likely to hold New York, but can the Democrats hold Nebraska? And if the Republicans do hold New York, is it a certainty that Mr. Roosevelt will be the new senator?

The President is a many-sided man, and adapts himself well and easily to company conditions. But is it possible to conceive him as either very happy or very useful as a senator? Washington [illegible] the Senate as a saucer, into which the hot brew of legislation was poured to be cooled. Does Mr. Roosevelt suggest a saucer? Was anything ever cooled by being poured into him? Does he not more strongly suggest both the coffee pot and the fire? As for debate in which a senator should excel, Mr. Roosevelt in his seven years in the White House has weakened by long disuse his talents in that particular. He has ceased even to be a conversationalist. Being widely read and full of matter, and deferred to as the chief magistrate, he has become a monologist. Now, the Senate will not stand for a monologue, no matter how interesting or instructive. Even Lord Macaulay would have to hold his horses in that chamber.

Equally difficult, would it be for Mr. Bryan to accommodate himself to senatorial conditions and requirements. It is true he has served in the House, but since then has become by the partiality of his admirers a monologist for 12 years now where he has sat has been the head of the table, and what he has said has had the right of way. Only once or twice in all that time has his authority been questioned. He was rigged a little at St. Louis in 1904, but soon recovered himself, and ever since has been wigging his riggers. He is a very smooth and fluent talker, and in the Senate would find many topics to [illegible] on. But there are many other smooth and fluent talkers in that chamber, and each is anxious to have his say. Mr. Bryan would not sit at the head of the table there, and would have to divide time with everybody around the board.

Senator Roosevelt and Senator Bryan would probably bear themselves very pleasantly toward each other; might become as chummy as Senator Edmunds and Senator Thurman were in their day. They might form a society of two members and vote the Senate a good body, if slow. But they would not really enjoy themselves. Their talents would not find their highest usefulness in that atmosphere. Both are by nature and training agitators, and the Senate is a body—the highest body—where the fruits of agitation are weighed and sorted.

TODAY'S HOROSCOPE

Saturday, December 26, 1908.

The keen eye and the steady hand;
These shall the day's reward command.

Quarrels, particularly between fellow employes, is threatened this New day. Apart from this, the business aspects of the period are excellent, especially in the morning.

The sign is fortunate for clergymen and general work.

Seek employment or increase of business or income before noon. A vigorous impulse is for those who can plan methods of action speedily in involved circumstances.

A good day to hire men or women for office and shop.

The Moon in perigee is in the constellation of Capricorn and the sign Aquarius. The influence is good for looking after leases, mortgages, legalities and house affairs.

A good influence beams for conjugal life and for [illegible] children.

Sarcasm and irony will wound sensitive natures deeply this day.

Women with this birthdate will do well to avoid office or social intrigue during the twelve month and to refrain from repeating gossip.

Law and quarrels are dangerous for men with this birthdate.

Quickness to anger is indicated for children born this day. Girls will probably be inclined to art. Boys must be trained to patience and justice.

MILLIONS IN LONDON'S CHURCHES

From Tit-Bits.

A century ago, there were 100 churches within the square mile of London city. Now there are little more than half that number. It has been suggested that 30 of these should be demolished and the funds thus liberated employed in church work elsewhere. The site of All Hallows, in Lombard street, is said to be worth $800,000, while that of St. Michael's, Cornhill, is valued at no less than $750,00. St. Peter's, Cornhill, stands on equally valuable ground. The aggregate site values of the 30 churches which it is proposed should be incorporated with other parishes is put down at $3,500,000.

MUETH'S

PUPILS ARE ENTERTAINED

Christmas Tree for Children of Deaf and Blind School.

Sixty pupils of the Deaf and Blind School were entertained at a Christmas tree yesterday afternoon by Mrs. C. E. Pearse at her home, 1230 North Cascade avenue. There were two gifts on the tree for each child, and after the distribution they were given their fill of ice cream, oranges and cake. But to them the most wonderful part of the entertainment was a ride in an automobile to and from the school. Superintendent W. K. Argo and instructors from the school were present.

MARRIAGE—F. M. Reader and Mrs. Hannah C. Brinley, both of Colorado Springs, were married in the study of the First Baptist church on Christmas eve, by the pastor, the Rev. J. H. Franklin. Mr. and Mrs. Reader will live at 316 East Second street, Ivywild.

Chapter C, P. E. O. will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock with Miss Campbell, 21 East Jefferson street.

FIVE HUNDRED TOTS GUESTS OF THE ELKS

POOR CHILDREN ENTERTAINED IN GREAT STYLE.

Santa Claus Has Presents for All. Music, Banquet and Show Complete Fine Program.

Santa Claus visited the Elks club yesterday and brought happiness to 500 poor children. Those whom he may have overlooked on Christmas eve were given ample evidence that they had by no means been forgotten.

While the Elks band was playing on the roof garden, the children began to gather. They came not singly, but in droves, until it appeared that almost every youngster in the city was upon the scene. Although the children seemed to enjoy the concert, the real fun commenced when gathered in the auditorium, they awaited the appearance of Santa Claus, their patron saint. They did not have long to wait, for he soon came down the chimney with his pack of toys and goodies upon his back. Remarkable must be the memory of Santa Claus, for he had not forgotten one of the children; he had a package of toys, candies and nuts for each.

Banquet and Show.

After Santa Claus had gone to prepare for his coming next year the children were given a banquet that they will not soon forget. There was coffee and sandwiches for all the hungry youngsters, and the way they made the food disappear struck envy in persons of less formidable digestive apparatus.

When the banquet was over the children were guests of Manager Braden of Fairyland, who had prepared a fine moving picture entertainment for them. The annual Christmas eve entertainment of the First Presbyterian church Sunday school were given. Best of all were the pictures of "The Teddy Bears," who captured the fancy of the children.

GENEROUS CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Mining and Milling Companies, Banks and Merchants Remember Their Employes.

Approximately $3,500 in bright, shiny gold pieces of $5 each were distributed as Christmas gifts by the Portland Gold Mining company to its 700 employes in the mill in West Colorado Springs and the mine at Victor. This was in accordance with the time-honored custom of the Portland company, and the employes have come to regard their Christmas present as something as regular as their wages.

Following its custom, the United States Reduction and Refining company, employing 250 men at the Standard mill in Colorado City and several hundred more all over the state, also gave a substantial remembrance to each employe.

All clerks and other employes in each of the banks of Colorado Springs were also remembered yesterday. The gifts were the shape of gold pieces, in almost every instance. The merchants also gave presents to their employes.

The mail carriers were also handsomely remembered. Frank Krouse was given $25 in gold by residents on his route on the west side. The other carriers also fared well. Both as regards cash and other presents.

MIDLAND IS AN IMPORTANT LINK

WILL GET MUCH TRANSCONTINENTAL BUSINESS.

Road Occupies Unique Place Because No Combination or Individual Can Control It.

According to a report from Denver, the Colorado Midland road is to become an important transcontinental link in the Burlington system. Through its purchase of the Colorado and Southern, the Burlington acquired one-half interest in the Midland.

The Colorado Midland occupies a unique place in the history of railroads because of the fact that no combination or individual can control the property, and because its stock is not for sale. It is believed, however, that a new era will begin for the Midland, since the purchase of the Colorado and Southern by the Burlington.

Stock Equally Divided

The Midland was once the bone of contention between the Colorado & Southern and the Rio Grande because it parallels those two systems and is competitive. Each sought to control it so as to keep the other out of the way. The fight finally resulted in the purchase of the capital stock jointly by the Rio Grande Western and the Colorado & Southern. Each road had exactly the same interest in the property, to the fraction of a cent. Each company had the same number of directors on the board, and not a single share of the stock was allowed to escape this joint control. Even the single shares transferred to the directors in order to qualify them for that position were given only to trusted men and then the stock was so protected that not a share of it could be sold. The two roads jointly shared alike in the distribution of the benefits.

Last July the half interest owned by the Rio Grande Western formally passed into the hands of the new Denver & Rio Grande system, and last week the other half passed from the Colorado & Southern into the control of the Burlington. The one share of stock which would give either owner the control, however, still remains unpurchasable.

The Burlington in the past has delivered the larger portion of its business to the Rio Grande in Denver, but that order of things will now probably change and instead the Midland will get the bulk of this business. It gives the Burlington half interest in an additional 300-mile haul. While the Rio Grande still has as much say as formerly in the management of the Midland, there is no way it can prevent the Burlington from routing its business over the new connection and delivering it to the Rio Grande at Grand Junction instead of Denver. The result of this change will probably be to make the Midland a part of a transcontinental system as its builders originally planned.

HANFORD GETS FINE ROBE

Employes Give Him Handsome Present.—Other Gifts at City Hall.

Pleasant surprises were sprung yesterday in the city health department when Dr. F. O. Hanford, health commissioner, was presented with a handsome automobile robe by the employes in his department, who also gave each a box of cigars, together with a box of candy for his wife. "If you haven't a wife, give the candy to your sister or sweetheart," said Dr. Hanford.

In behalf of the men employed in the police department, Mayor D. N. Heizer gave Chief of Police W. S. Reynolds a fine saddle.

Water Superintendent J. B. Verner was presented by the men in his department with a smoking jacket and gold-mounted meerschaum pipe.

What Press Agents Say

"JUST OUT OF COLLEGE" TONIGHT.

The most recent comedy from the pen of George Ade, entitled "Just Out of College," will be the attraction at the Opera House this evening. It is said that in this play Mr. Ade has introduced many new types and while he has embellished some old ones, he has given them all something new to do. In writing the comedy Mr. Ade has made use of his gift of humor to put in the "time light" the college youth. Edward Worthington Swinger is a silly young man just graduated. Swinger has fallen desperately in love with one Caroline Pickering, daughter of a pickle king. Old man Pickering thinks Swinger a silly ass and insists on his making good before he will surrender the daughter. To give Swinger a chance in the world, Pickering lends him $20,000 and orders him to report in three months. Swinger doesn't have to report, for, at the end of the first month, Pickering is out with big money to buy up the new Bingo Pickle company, which, by the new methods, has put the pickle trust on the run. Swinger, as a silent partner in the Bingo company, has furnished the sinews of war with Pickering's money. Of course, the young man gets the girl and manages to show quite a profit on Pickering's loss.

There are side plots which are nicely woven into the general story and all redolent of the Ade humor. Seats are 50 cents, 75 cents, $1.00 and $1.50.

SEATS TODAY—"THE RIVALS."

Several years ago, through the sudden illness of the late Mr. Joseph Jefferson, it became necessary for his son William W. Jefferson to play the part of Bob Acres in "The Rivals" at Pittsburg, Pa. The Times, a representative paper of that city, in reviewing his performance said: "The boy shows his father in every movement, off the stage as well as on. The clothes he wears in the play are those his father wore, and not even the shoes required alteration. The fit is perfect. Another son, Joseph, the elder of the two, played 'Sir Lucius,' a part that he has always played with his father's company since W. J. Florence's death. Those two younger Jeffersons, with the sanction and guidance resultant from the experiences of their father and supported by an excellent company, come to the Opera House Tuesday. Seats on sale today. Prices 50 cents, 75 cents, $1.00 and $1.50.

"THE WOLF" NEXT WEEK.

"The Wolf," a new play by Eugene Walter, author of "Paid in Full" will be presented at the Opera House Thursday evening. It is a drama of the Canadian Hudson Bay territory. The hero is a French Canadian, who undertakes a vendetta against a man who ruined and caused the death of his half-sister. He finds him in the person of a civil engineer from the states, who is scheming to get possession of Hilda, the very girl upon whom he has set his own heart. The engineer has the young woman's father, an old Scotch trader, on his side, but the hero succeeds in carrying her off after a fight, and in the closing act kills his rival in a sensational duel. The play has been running with much success at the Lyric theater, New York. The principal character, the French-Canadian will be played by Mr. Andrew Robson.

"PAID IN FULL" NEW YEARS.

"Paid in Full," Wagenhals and Kemper's new production, will be seen at the Opera House, New Years, matinee and night. Acton Davies, the well-known writer, says of the play:

"After all, if the play is really the thing then there's a new 'thing' in town. It's called 'Paid in Full,' by Eugene Walter; it has taken anchor at the Astor theater and there it is going to remain for an indefinite period. 'Paid in Full' scored an immense success last night—one of the sensational successes of the season. Its boldness, its simplicity and its originality all told in its favor. Here at last was a young American playwright brave enough to dramatize a Harlem flat and its occupants; he had taken his theme right out of every day life on the upper west side and played his dramatic cards so well that he held his blase first night audience in his hand and not only interested them intensely, but gave them in one act both a great surprise and a real thrill. Young Mr. Walter arrived last night and Managers Wagenhals and Kemper are to be congratulated upon the uncommonly fine cast with which they carried 'Paid in Full' to its great success. 'Paid in Full' can speak for itself, and, more than that it is one of those plays which pays its audiences with full measure."

"LOLA FROM BERLIN."

"Lola From Berlin," the latest musical work from the pens of John J. McNally, William Jerome and Jean Schwartz, will come to the Opera House next week with Corinne in the leading role. "Lola From Berlin" received introduction in the Liberty theater, New York city last season under the management of Klaw & Erlanger, where it won instant approval. An exceptionally strong cast has been engaged to support Corinne, inclnding. Mark Sullivan, Hazel Carlton, Franklin Vail, Henry Carl Lewis, Lillie May White, Osborn Clemson, Lillian Wilson, Frankie Woods, Pearl Revare, Freddie Stott, Bunnie Ingebo and a large ensemble force.

THE CRYSTAL

The Crystal's record was made yesterday in every way; attendance the largest, six of the best pictures ever shown; lack of room makes it impossible to tell the many laughable incidentals running through the pictures; every one is a headliner, and everybody went out feeling like they had a 50-cent show for a dime.

The children happy, the candy deal, you know. The ladies having added two or three more tickets to their number for those beautiful tea sets. Then, you can see a change every other day at the Crystal, you know.

Don't miss seeing the program just for 10 cents.

TEDDY BEARS AT FAIRYLAND.

The way the Teddy Bears pleased the people at the First Presbyterian church, Christmas eve, and the like worthy guests yesterday at Fairyland, and also the large audience at that popular playhouse pronounces it one of the most popular films that has been shown for sometime. This afternoon and evening is the last chance to see it. Don't miss it.

"The Christmas Turkey" is another fine one, and is well worth admission price. You may see a discription of same in yesterday's Gazette. Then also you should not fail to hear the boy quartette sing "Morning Cy." It is making one of the biggest hits of any song that has been sung at Fairyland.

This is one of the best Christmas programs obtainable, and the Fairyland Stock company have a special Christmas play, entitled, "Willie's Christmas Gift"—a comedy drama, full of strong dramatic situations, pathos and a rich vein of comedy running through the entire piece, which gives a story of a child's loyalty to its mother. Elegant stage settings.

Receipt That Cures Weak Men -Free.

Send Name and Address Today You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own home, without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and vitality quickly and easily should have a copy. So, I have determined to send a copy of the prescription, free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men, and I am convinced it is the best acting combination for the cure of debility, manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence, so that any man, anywhere who is weak and discouraged with impaired vigor may stop worrying and by using this harmless prescription secure what, I believe, is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, ALL-TOUCHING tonic, ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Mr. A. E. Robinson, Luck Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this prescription, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, free of charge.

BOY TORTURED BY AWFUL HUMOR

Almost Covered with Eczema—No Night's Rest for Nearly a Year—Feared Lifelong Disfigurement—All Treatments Failed and Limit of Endurance Seemed Near.

PERFECT RECOVERY IS DUE TO CUTICURA

"With the exception of his hands and feet, my son Clyde (thirteen years old) was almost completely covered with eczema. Physicians treated him for nearly a year without helping him any. While they were kind and did all in their power, yet nothing seemed to relieve him. And I had tried many remedies sent to me by kind friends but they all failed. His head, face, and neck were covered with large scabs which he would rub until they fell off. Then blood and matter would run out and that would be worse. Many a time he looked as if his face would be eaten off. Friends coming to see him said that if he got well he would be disfigured for life.

"When it seemed as if he could possibly stand it no longer, I decided to try Cuticura. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. I used them in the evening and that was the first night for nearly a year that he slept. This may sound exaggerated to you, but in the morning there was a great change for the better. In about six weeks you could not have told that he had ever had anything wrong with him. I treated him twice a day for six months and at present he has a fine complexion and not a speck on his body. This story may seem overdrawn, but neither words nor pen can describe Clyde's suffering and how he looked. Our leading physician, Dr. [illegible], recommended the Cuticura Remedies for eczema. Mrs. Algy Cockburn, Shiloh, O., June 11, 1907."

Frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap and occasionally dressings with Cuticura Ointment will stop falling hair, remove crusts, scales, and dandruff, destroy hair parasites, soothe irritated, itching surfaces, stimulate the hair follicles, supply the roots with nourishment, lower the scalp skin, and make the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp, when all other methods fail.

[illegible] for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (Pills 50c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston.

"Beautiful Christmas Tree," a play with a moral, that every mother and child should see.

RECORD-BREAKING CROWDS AT THE NEW MAJESTIC

Packed to the doors and hundreds turned away.

Scores clamoring for admittance after the theater had been taxed to its capacity.

This was the Christmas greeting of Colorado Springs to superior vaudeville as presented at the New Majestic theater. An hour before the curtain was raised upon Ollie Knight's great minstrel act, every seat in the theater was occupied, and attendants at the entrances were having difficulty in holding back the multitude demanding admittance. The scene was repeated at the evening performances.

The bill of splendid artists was hailed with acclaim. As a matter of fact, the repeated encores, demands that the audience insisted upon fulfillment, [illegible] an hour beyond schedule.

Ollie Knight was never funnier than yesterday. With merry quip and jocund anecdote, and "classy" dancing, he certainly entertained his audience.

The Musical Gardners struck a responsive chord in renditions of the old-fashioned airs that we can all understand. For the delectation of the more musically educated they gave several classical selections.

The Vivians "made good," to use the vernacular of the profession. Never before has such sensational sharpshooting been witnessed in Colorado Springs. This headline act has done more to substantiate the promises of the new management than any attraction that could have been presented.

Mandy Barackman has made a decided hit with Colorado Springs audiences, as evidenced by the approval with which she is received at every performance.

The moving pictures disclose new wonders in the realm of animate and inanimate life.

"Yes," said Mr. Dustin Stax, "I have an eyeful in life and by the hardest kind of work."

"You don't look as if you had had much personal experience with hard work."

"Of course not. I hired it done."—Washington Star.

Colorado City News

A collision occurred at 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon between a large automobile, driven by Lawrence D. Kent of 114 West Pikes Peak avenue, and a horse and buggy driven by a colored man, whose name is unknown, at the corner of Fifth street and Colorado avenue. The automobile struck a front wheel of the carriage, the horse falling and the occupant leaping to the ground. Kent declares that he made every endeavor to stop, even to locking the rear wheels of his machine, which slid on the street ice for a distance of about 40 feet. Both he and the colored man were ordered by Patrolman J. A. Louderman to appear in the police court at 9 o'clock this morning.

The boxing contest between George W. Batch, colored, and James Beard, which was to have been held at Mack's hall yesterday afternoon, failed to come off. Although a fair crowd of sports assembled, differences between the principals and others arose and the bout was given up. Batch, who is a resident of Colorado Springs, declares that he will meet any man in the world at 128 pounds.

At the regular meeting of Colorado City lodge No. 77, I. O. O. F., Wednesday evening, the lodge presented C. L. Smith with a beautiful combination past grand and past patriarch militant collar in appreciation of his long and faithful services in behalf of the lodge. Mr. Smith has served in the capacity of secretary continuously for over 10 years, and from present indications has a life tenure of the office.

What promises to be one of the most interesting programs in the year's course has been arranged for the next meeting of the Women's Study club of this city, which will be held Monday at the home of Mrs. F. CITY WILL SELL RARE PAINTINGS

From the New York Tribune.

Comptroller Metz, on Friday, will conduct about the oddest auction at old East River Savings Bank building, in Chambers street, the city has held. He will sell to the highest bidder 115 oil paintings from the brush of Mrs. Angelina T. Crane, who lived and died long ago, and they probably will bring about $25 altogether. They cost Mrs. Crane to paint more than $25,000, but that also was in the long ago. She willed them to the city. But the weirdest thing of all to be offered at the sale will be a faded little old jewel box containing locks of baby hair and two or three baby teeth, labeled "Edith's hair and teeth." There is also some old fashioned jewelry, a diamond brooch and some old clothing.

Mrs. Angelina P. Crane was a well-to-do woman, with artistic leanings. She had a studio fifty years ago at 760 Broadway. Her fortune enabled her to go abroad year after year, and she painted 115 copies of old masters in the galleries of Europe. The critics say that only their frames are of value.

Mrs. Crane had a daughter, Edith, with whom she had a disagreement. When the mother died in 1892, she disinherited her daughter, willing her only $5. The remainder of her estate was divided equally between charitable institutions in this city and the city of New York for a drinking fountain. The daughter contested, and the battle went to the court of appeals. The will was sustained, and the city chamberlain has more than $80,000 with which to build a fountain, which Frederick MacMonnies, the sculptor, will design. It may be placed in front of the city hall.

LATE OLD CAMP GHOST

Bucolic Staten Islanders Say Now Sleep in Peace.

From the New York World.

The simple, rural New Yorkers living near old Camp Woods, Staten Island, had been in terror of nights recently. Mysterious nocturnal noises in the woods, blood-curdling hoots and the flapping of ghastly wings effectively thinned the dwelling near Amboy road, North Tottenville.

Mothers scared naughty children with the threat "the spooks in the woods will catch you if you're not good." Even Bill Berlinger, an employe in the bureau of buildings, and a mighty hunter, who lives near the Camp Woods, feared to enter it after dark. But swearing he would capture or kill the uncanny terror of North Tottenville, whatever it might be, brave Bill Berlinger armed himself with his double-barreled shotgun and strode into the woods Monday afternoon. And with him went his trusty friend, Silas Brown, a local lawyer, who carried a club that would serve a Fiji warrior.

They searched the underbrush; they tramped the edge of the swamp land; they peered up trees; they found not one new or unusual spooky or in the flesh. Returning homeward about dusk they [illegible] a tree [illegible] the stump, startled [illegible] Bill Berlinger and [illegible] Brown jumped back a pace or two; then Berlinger, recovering himself, said: "A rabbit," and thrust his hand in the stump hollow.

He touched feathers, not fur. A big red horned owl flew wildly from the stump in brave Bill's face; his shotgun slipped from his trembling fingers. The owl savagely tore Berlinger's face with its claws; with its beak tore a piece from his nose, kept at him, half-blinded, until, with a lucky blow of his club, Silas Brown felled it dead.

Chauncey Jones of Ward's Point, an amateur taxidermist, is stuffing the horned owl. Mounted, it will be presented to Bill Berlinger as a slight token of North Tottenville's appreciation of his bravery. These bucolic New Yorkers have not been so excited since Aug. [illegible] White's bull calf committed suicide by drowning itself in Sam Butler's water trough some years ago.

It is said that Emperor William of Germany has always been careful that the ancestral cradle of the Hohenzollerns should be used for each infant member of his family in succession. This cradle is over two centuries old and is of curiously carved black oak. It is supposed to protect the baby who sleeps in it from convulsions and other childish ailments.

AUDIENCE DELIGHTED WITH MAN

"Laughter-Loving" Comedy Pleases Christmas Crowd—Play Is Little Too Suggestive.

"Gowns that make a mere man gasp" is what Kathryn Osterman's hard-worked press agent says about the "creations" worn by that lady in "The Night of the Play," in which she was seen at the Opera House yesterday afternoon and night, by two comfortably filled houses. How true this statement may be is left to those who saw them, but when Miss Osterman appeared in the last act in her much-advertised $1,000 cloth of gold directoire gown, there was an audible murmur of approval from the spectators for both the gown and the wearer.

As an actress, Miss Osterman pleased her audiences yesterday immensely. The people were in a holiday spirit and showed a great likening to the play, the players, and most of all, the star. Miss Osterman is pretty of her style, interesting and clever. Next year she is to turn from comedy to the emotional drama, which shows she is also ambitious. She plays in the spirit of the farce and makes every line "tell." She is supported by a fairly good company; one that also plays in the spirit of the piece, although without much regard for the fine points of acting.

"The Night of the Play" is adapted from the German, and was first produced in this country several years ago by the late Augustin Daly. It borders, as foreign farces always do, very closely on the vulgar, and slapstick style of comedy. The players play it accordingly, frequently introducing horse play, which is entirely unnecessary and undesirable.

Nevertheless, the audience liked it, and would much prefer it to such a fine old comedy as "The Rivals," which comes here next week, in which there is real and refined humor, and an agreeable absence of all rough and tumble efforts.

BRINGS JOY TO THE POOR

Salvation Army Christmas Tree Gladdens Hearts of Children.

Pleasing Play Presented.

Around a glittering Christmas tree, laden with beautiful decorations of spangle and taper, and with boughs bending beneath the weight of a wealth of gifts, 300 poor children gathered at the Salvation Army hall last night. Every child received a present, thanks to the Santa Claus of the glossy kettles, that have mutely but effectively appealed from street corners.

After the gifts were distributed, a pretty play, entitled "Nellie's Christmas Eve," was given. After it was all over, the children were sent home with their pockets stuffed full of candies and other presents.

WAS A CLOSE CALL

Mrs. Ada L. Croon, the widely known proprietor of the Croon Hotel, Vaughn, Miss., says: "For several months I suffered with a severe cough, and consumption seemed to have its grip on me, when a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery. I began taking it, and three bottles effected a complete cure. The fame of this life saving cough and cold remedy, and the lung and throat healer is world wide. Sold at all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

WEDDING REPORT CONFIRMED

George Birdsall and Miss Rankin Married in Spite of Denials.

The report of the marriage in Cripple Creek Thursday night of Sheriff-elect George C. Birdsall and Miss Mabel Rankin, both of Colorado City, which was announced in The Gazette yesterday morning, was confirmed last night by Mrs. M. K. Rankin, mother of the bride, despite the fact that the groom denied his marriage Thursday night. Mrs. Rankin said: "Yes, they are married, and The Gazette's statement was correct. I do not know when they are coming home."

MRS. M'RANEY'S EXPERIENCE

Mrs. M. McRaney, Perryville, Miss., writes: "I was confined to my bed for three months with kidney and bladder trouble, and was treated by two physicians but failed to get relief. No human tongue can tell how I suffered, and I had given up hope of ever getting well until I began taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. After taking two bottles I feel like a new person, and feel it my duty to tell suffering women what Foley's Kidney Remedy did for me." Sold by all druggists.

COLITIS—MADE DRUNKARDS

Chicago Evangelist Says Higher Education Fills the Prisons.

Chicago Dispatch to the New York World.

Higher education was given as a cause for the filling of prisons by E. C. Mercer, a reformed drunkard, now engaged in evangelistic work, who addressed the students of Northwestern university.

"During the last few years I have been working in the Water Street Mission at New York," he said, "and I have learned that one-third of the Irish who come there ragged and dirty, and begging for food were college-bred. I have found them on the Bowery making [illegible] waiting on tables and I have even met them in the street-cleaning brigades. During February of last year more than 400 of them stood in the 'bread line' at our mission. Seventy-five per cent of the prisoners at Sing Sing are college-bred men.

SPECIAL SERVICES—Masons are especially invited to attend the special services to be held at Grace church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

RIFLE CLUB SHOOT—The Colorado Springs Rifle club will hold a shoot February 21, 22, for the Denver Post trophy and cash and merchandise prizes.

MARRIAGE—David Davis and Miss Leah Moberly, both of Falcon, were married last Wednesday by the Rev. J. D. Curtis at his home near that place.

CASE NOLLED—The case of Gus Parker, charged with the theft of a cow, has been nolled in the district court. The hearing of H. Brown, accused of the same offense, has been continued until the January term of court.

DIRECT CHOIR. Miss Viola Paulus, a noted contralto of Chicago, will direct the choir of the First Baptist church during the coming year. At the morning service next Sunday she will sing "He Shall Lead His Flock," from the Messiah. "The Virgin's Lullaby," by Buck, is the solo to be given by Miss Paulus at the evening service.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM—With a religious allegory, the Sunday school of the First Baptist church will celebrate Christmas tomorrow evening. The allegory is entitled "The Second Coming of the Wise Men," and will be presented with appropriate accessories.

Tea exposed to the air loses its flavor and fragrance, and obtains dust and moisture. The aroma of tea files from the time it is exposed to the air, and therefore the "Sealed Packet" is the only insurance against the loss of value.

Chase & Sanborn's tea in canisters is free from dust and moisture, and has the delicate flavor and fragrance appreciated by tea drinkers.
